Graduate admissions can be an overwhelming process. With many options available, ranging from esteemed Ivy League institutions and Russell Group universities to specialized graduate programs at state universities, it's easy to get lost in a sea of choices. Many students are often bewildered when weighing the factors that most matter to them. Should they prioritize location, academic reputation, faculty expertise, program specifics, or financial considerations? The answer may vary from one individual to another.

That's where my services come into play. We will focus together on narrowing our focus to helping you decide on the right college for your graduate education.

My primary aim will be to assist you in making the most informed choice I understand that your goals may be multifaceted, and I respect that and will be considering it while working out the college list.

How will this work

In the steps

In this 4-stage process, I will...

Stage 1: Interview you about your experiences/achievements. I will try to understand your academic background, future aspirations, and the unique factors that matter most to you. This in-depth conversation allows us to narrow down a list of colleges that match your criteria. We consider your desired location, academic strengths, program offerings, and any other specific requirements you might have.

Stage 2: Insights into the program: We also provide valuable insights into various institutions' strengths and weaknesses, helping you make an informed decision. I can provide information about each college, including admission requirements, scholarship opportunities, and potential career outcomes for each program.

Stage 3: Reiteration: Take your time to review the list, and then share the final version with any necessary additions or removals based on your needs. We discuss the final version of the list.

While this service is solely on guidance on college selection, the approach is non-biased and personalized. The "right" college is subjective and depends on your goals and needs. The aim is to empower you with the knowledge and resources needed to make decisions that align with your personal and professional objectives.
